Stop spending so much time and manpower trying to keep up with and tie together your employees' evolving accreditation needs.

Essential pieces to your organization's continued existence are precariously jetting around without a central hub, like governing board requirements, employee certification statuses, standards verification, not to mention other training, classes and webinars...

With CEDex, there will be no more disparate pieces to chase around.

No more badgering employees and hoping they are completing their continuing education on time

- We will keep them informed of what they need by what date.
- You don't have to wait for them to turn in their certification. As soon as they complete the credit, it will be automatically submitted to the board/regulator. You will be instantly informed that they have completed certification.
- Even if they need accreditations in other states or jurisdictions, those specific requirements will be correlated and tracked to them.
- There are no more printed training certificates to track.
- Mobile apps allow your employees instant access to their CE status.
- Easily add and grow continuing professional development.
- CEDex serves as an accurate repository about learners, learning, and their knowledge
